POVERTY ALLEVIATION SYSTEM

THE POVERTY SOLUTION INITIATIVE

WHAT IS A POVERTY MANAGEMENT SYSTEM?

Most communities in the United States are immersed in managing poverty rather than alleviating it. Government and community-based programs typically operate in silos and produce only random and unreliable results, keeping poverty rates high and stagnant over the decades. Poverty management systems are not accountable to reducing poverty rates. Therefore, they generate unintended system barriers and service gaps that keep people stuck in poverty.

WHAT IS A POVERTY ALLEVIATION SYSTEM?

Pioneer communities are working with The Poverty Solution to transform the way they address poverty. A poverty alleviation system creates teams that are highly accountable to supporting people through all five stages of moving out of poverty. The system barriers and service gaps that are identified by the teams are given to a collective impact team to solve.

HOW DOES IT WORK?

The Poverty Solution provides on-site and online consulting, technical assistance, templates, and tools to equip your community leaders to:
